

Courage to invest in silver

Silver has recovered somewhat in price, but unfortunately is only an investment opportunity for the courageous.

Only recently, the price of the precious metal fell to its lowest level in two years at $17.56 per troy ounce. Now it seems that the price is recovering again. If silver quotes significantly below 18 U.S. dollars, then it is over for numerous silver producers with the free cash flow. These are the financial resources that are actually available to serve shareholders, stakeholders, investors or owners. It is a pity that the silver price has actually only caused disappointments this year, as the little brother of gold is a good investment opportunity. Silver has qualities as an investment raw material. If the price were to drop significantly again, silver operations could be shut down. Investors could then use this development to buy favorable silver shares.

Looking at the supply side, Peru, the number three silver producing country, stands out with lower silver production. In July 2022, for example, there was a decline of more than 15 percent compared to the same month last year. This was mainly due to the largest silver producer. Of course, the economy is currently weakening due to the known incidents, but silver with its dual function as an investment and as an industrial metal should also be able to rise again from the valley of tears. The electronics industry and especially the photovoltaic sector will need large quantities of silver in the coming years. For electricity production to function, silver is simply essential.

And silver in the ground (also gold) is owned, for example, by Vizsla Silver - <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=VQqUHAs7EYY> - with its Panuco project in Mexico. Production has already taken place here in the past.

Sierra Madre Gold and Silver - <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=N4Jxn2arnHI> - is also active in Mexico. The Tepic and La Tigra projects score with a historical resource estimate and are located in the mining friendly area.
