

You can rely on gold and silver

Even if gold has lost some of its gains, gold and silver are among the investments with very good returns.

Wealth can also be invested in collector's items, such as watches, art, wine or whiskey. A bottle of Macallan whiskey - the single malt is considered the most expensive in the world - can cost more than 1.7 million euros if it comes from a specific cask and was bottled in 1926. Such investment properties require a great deal of expertise. In addition to the return on investment, fun and passion also count. But this also applies to gold and silver. Over the last 100 years, shares have generated a significantly better return on average than collectibles, according to an analysis by Credit Suisse. And let's not forget that collector's items require proper storage and possibly also a safe or alarm system. Investors have an easier time with gold and silver shares.

Many analysts expected gold prices to fall again somewhat. According to a survey by Kitco News, private investors are currently expecting further price increases. Most market analysts, however, tend to be neutral or pessimistic in the short term. Especially after a strong upward trend, things can go down again. However, this does not detract from the long-term outlook. The economic situation is deteriorating, and the debt burdens of many countries are uncontrollable. Gold and silver should therefore continue to shine in the future, as should well-positioned companies such as Sierra Madre Gold and Silver or Discovery Silver.

Discovery Silver's - <https://www.commodity-tv.com/ondemand/companies/profil/discovery-silver-corp/> - focus is on silver and silver-zinc-lead projects in North America. The Codero project in Chihuahua in particular boasts immense silver resources.

Sierra Madre Gold and Silver - <https://www.commodity-tv.com/ondemand/companies/profil/sierra-madre-gold-silver/> - is working on the revitalization of the La Giutarra mine in Mexico. The portfolio also includes the Tepic and La Tigra properties, also in Mexico.
