

Now is the time for gold investment

Reflections on why it might be worthwhile to enter the gold market right now.

Finding a bull market is not easy. There are industry experts who see the beginning of a bull market in gold right now, for example Frank Giustra, CEO of the Fiore Group. Gold has reached a new level and is showing stability there. If one now invests in a well-positioned company that also has an excellent management team, the investment could be worthwhile. Of course, some patience is also required until a company develops. Gold remains a safe haven, even if there is currently a low in the price, seen on the last few weeks.

The reason lies in the currently strong U.S. dollar and the yields of ten-year bonds, which are at a high level. Many investors are still in waiting position and watch the monetary policy of the Fed. After all, there are still many uncertainties. How will the economy develop and how long will the high inflation remain. This should make gold attractive in the longer term. Especially the inflation risks will not disappear so quickly.

Economic challenges are more likely to increase. Then more momentum should come back into the price of the precious metal. In particular, analysts who do not forecast a soft landing for the U.S. believe that gold will see higher prices. And there is also a weakening economic development in China and in Europe. This leads to the aforementioned uncertainties and will increasingly drive investors to gold investments. Budget deficits also continue to grow, and debt mountains are getting bigger. In the field of gold companies, an investment in Osisko Development or Condor Gold, for example, could now be worthwhile.

Osisko Development - <https://www.commodity-tv.com/ondemand/companies/profil/osisko-development-corp/> - is focused on Mexico, Canada and the USA and is already producing gold. Rock samples from the project in the USA yielded high-grade gold (just under 362 grams of gold per ton of rock).

Condor Gold - <https://www.commodity-tv.com/ondemand/companies/profil/condor-gold-plc/> - is focusing on three projects in Nicaragua. The La India Gold Project (100 percent) covers 588 square kilometers and covers 98 percent of the historic La India gold mining district.
